Mayor Says Control of Gaming Problem for Chief of Police

'Slots' Disappear Quickly

Sheriff Finds Machines Gone

Mayor Roy W. Vaughn today left the Mansfield gambling situation in the lap of Police Chief Jesse Schwab.

"As I said before, I'm going to maintain a strictly hands-off policy," the mayor said.

"I think Chief Schwab is doing a good job and I'm not going to interfere or dictate to him. He is free to run his own department," he told a News-Journal reporter

Schwab continued to keep his silence about the return of gambling.

"I still have no comment to make," he said.

"BANDITS" DISAPPEAR

In contrast, Sheriff Frank E. Robinson said today he investigated a News-Journal report yesterday that slot machines were operating at the Richland Driving Range west of the city. He said he found no gambling devices there last night.

A News-Journal reporter played a 5-cent slot machine at the driving range Monday. He said 10-cent and 25-cent machines also were available for play.

"We can't watch every place in the county all the time, and occasionally a machine will be slipped in, but I'm not going to stand for gambling of any kind in the county," Robinson said.

If there are slot machine operations in the county, they are "very limited," the sheriff asserted. He said the machines sometimes are brought out only for certain occasions.

MAYOR 'NOT AWARE'

The mayor, questioned about the return of the Max Mosberg horse bookie at 12½ South Main street and baseball pools, punchboards and poker sheets in dozens of business places in the city, commented:

"I'm not aware the law is being broken."

The gambling devices have been reappearing gradually since April and the horse bookie went back into operation late in May.

A ban on gambling, which Police Chief Schwab said he ordered, lasted for approximately eight weeks during the late winter. The chief had said the ban would be permanent.

President Visits Home

ABOARD TRUMAN TRAIN EN ROUTE TO KANSAS CITY, Mo.—(AP)—President Truman pictured himself today as a champion of the people in their struggle against "special privilege."

In platform talks, Mr. Truman carried on his appeal for votes as his homeward-bound campaign train moved eastward.

"The issue in this country is between special privilege and the people," he said at Albuquerque, N. M., last night.

"I think I represent the people, and I am trying to tell the people just how I represent them."

This is one of the themes at which he has hammered during nearly 60 talks since he left Washington June 3 on a cross-country pre-convention tour.

The President also repeated yesterday that he has been "pouring it on" Congress.

"And they've got the jitters back there," he told an Albuquerque crowd. "They have gone to work."

The President will visit his home in Jackson county, Missouri, late today for the first time since the death of his 94-year-old mother, Mrs. Martha E. Truman, at Grandview, Mo.

Police Oust Workers

CLERMONT-FERRAND, France —(INS)— Work stoppages were staged today in most factories of Clermont-Ferrand after 3,000 "stay in" strikers were evicted from a metal works plant in a battle with police in which 120 persons were injured.

Fire Fighter Becomes Hot Under Collar

WEST CARROLLTON—(AP)—This community's brand-new $10,000 pumper broke down in the middle of the biggest fire here in years.

Fire Capt. William Aufuldish, enraged at heckling by bystanders, tossed his fire hat to the ground, stamped on it and resigned from the force.

Damage to the warehouse on fire was estimated at $10,000.

Reds Say No To Self-Rule For Germany

Reply Rejects 6-Power Plan

WASHINGTON —(U.P.)— Russia has rejected the six power agreement for self-government in western Germany, it was disclosed today.

Diplomatic sources said the Soviet Union's objections to the six power plan to set up a separate western German government were communicated to Sir William Strang, chairman of the London conference, by the Soviet ambassador in London.

The state department said no formal statement regarding Russia's attitude on the plan has been received here from the Soviet embassy. But the rejection communicated to Strang was regarded as applying to all six powers.

Meanwhile, it was disclosed that the United States and Britain have turned down French suggestions that negotiations on the six power agreement be reopened.

Authoritative sources said the two governors believe adequate machinery is available in the agreement to meet French objections.

The plan was announced 10 days ago by representatives of the United States, Britain, France, Belgium, Luxembourg, and the Netherlands.

France is the only nation which has not approved the plan for starting a German government in the three western zones, and placing the Ruhr industrial area under international control.

Closing Club Gives Workers Final Fling

NEW YORK —(AP)— When 160 employes of the Monte Carlo night club walked off their jobs yesterday, the management shut down and threw a party.

The idle workers were invited in for "drinks on the house." Musicians of two bands started a "jam session." Headquarters danced with hat check girls, while kitchen help sat down to a feast in the dining room.

The work stoppage came after eight bartenders struck in a wage dispute, and others joined in a sympathy stoppage.

The management said this and "dwindling receipts" prompted the decision to close down.

Manager Joe Baum, who said he didn't blame the workers for wanting more money, did the honors by mixing drinks for pickets who took turns leaving their sidewalk posts.

Killers Face Death Chair

COLUMBUS —(INS)— Twenty-one-year-old Elmer Curnutt must die in Ohio penitentiary's electric chair July 16 for the hold-up slaying of Thomas Wilson, aged and crippled Cincinnati cafe owner.

The state supreme court fixed the execution date today in denying Curnutt's appeal.

Curnutt's uncle Ova B. Cornutt, 46, will be executed the same night for the same crime unless the courts or the governor intercede.

CLERK SERVES 38 YEARS

YOUNGSTOWN — (AP) — Since 1910, the year it was organized, municipal court has had only one chief clerk—Martin J. Carney. He retired yesterday. He is 73 and claims to be Ohio's oldest municipal court clerk in point of service.

Ohio C. C. Board To Meet

Session First Outside Capital

The board of directors of the Ohio Chamber of Commerce will convene tomorrow in Mansfield for the first quarterly board meeting ever held outside of Columbus.

The vanguard of the 44 directors, 32 guests, and 11 staff members began registering today at the Mansfield-Leland hotel.

Highlight of the two-day conference is a dinner at the Westbrook Country club tomorrow night. John Ward, executive vice-president of the Alabama State Chamber of Commerce, will speak on "The Southern Businessman's Viewpoint In Regard to Proposed 'Civil Rights Legislation'."

The meeting opens officially with a breakfast tomorrow at the hotel. Harry B. Soulen, president of the Mansfield Chamber of Commerce, and Mayor Roy W Vaughn will welcome the state officials.

Following a business meeting, lunch at the Westinghouse Electric corporation auditorium and a tour of the plant, the members and guests will travel to the country club for the dinner.

Friday the directors will hold a second business meeting followed by a luncheon at which time C. I. Weaver, president of the Ohio Fuel Gas company, will summarize the work and significance of the two-day meeting.

In the afternoon the conferees will tour the Mohican State park, guided by Louis Bromfield and Bryce Browning, secretary of the Muskingum conservancy district.

The two-day meeting will wind up with a picnic dinner at Malabar farm and the nationally famous annual Bromfield community barn dance at which the O.C.C. directors will be special guests.

Quaker City Awaits GOP

PHILADELPHIA —(INS)— Walter S Hallanan arrangements committee chairman, announced today that all is in readiness for the Republican national convention starting Monday in Philadelphia.

Hallanan told the final meeting of the committee at the Bellevue-Stratford hotel that little remained to be done except routine tasks such as distribution of tickets and badges

Completion of the thousand and one details of convention planning was disclosed as the Quaker City began to fill up with Republican leaders, delegates and visitors from all parts of the country.

The majority of the 104 members of the Republican national committee were on hand to put finishing touches on plans for the parley at spacious convention hall in West Philadelphia.

Bunting and flags flew overhead throughout the city streets and enterprising merchants, hotel and cafe owners plastered their places of business with "welcome delegates" sign.

Six Nations Join Search

WIESBADEN—(INS)—An extensive air and sea search is underway today for three Flying Fortresses missing on a flight from the Azores to Corsica.

Aircraft of six nations joined in combing the western Mediterranean for a trace of the planes missing since Monday night.

U. S. Army Air Force headquarters in Wiesbaden said the planes are believed to be civilian-owned craft sold as U. S. army surplus.

Repairs Promised Today

Foul Odor Accents Sewer Repair Need

A broken sanitary sewer line continued today to spill foul-smelling fluid onto the I. A. Barnett company property at 57 West Longview avenue, providing further evidence of the need for an overhauling of the city's sewer system.

Sanitary Engineer B. V. BeVier, who repeatedly has called attention to the deteriorating and inadequate city sewer system, said repairs would be made as soon as possible.

An employe of the company said the sewer line broke during the heavy rain Saturday. BeVier's office was notified Monday.

Water continued today to bubble from the sewer line. A warm breeze carried a disagreeable odor into the office of the Barnett company and other plants in the vicinity.

The sanitary engineer said his overworked crew of 10 men hoped to check the Longview avenue sewer break today as soon as they could finish repairs to an also-broken South Diamond street sewer line.

Complaints of broken sewer lines, BeVier explained, come in faster than the crew can make repairs. "We have from three to four calls ahead of us all the time," he said.

The broken Longview avenue line is a line which formerly was used to bring water into the city. It now is under lease by the Empire Steel company to permit disposal of plant sewage into the city sewer lines.

"The line is in bad shape and from what I understand, it regularly chokes up and breaks out somewhere," BeVier said

Prohibition Bid Rejected

COLUMBUS —(AP)— The Ohio Supreme court today refused to order Secretary of State Edward J. Hummel to print petition forms to enable the Prohibition party to qualify for the presidential election in Ohio next November.

Frank M. McCartney of Columbus had asked for a writ on behalf of the party to compel the secretary of state to supply petition forms so that the party could vote for its nominees for President and Vice-President.

The Supreme court said there was no mandatory duty on the part of the secretary of state to supply the forms

The decision, however, would leave the way open for the party to qualify its nominees by preparing its own petitions and submitting them to the secretary of the state.

How It Feels to Beat Sound

Flight Described By Pilot

WASHINGTON — (U.P.) — A tiny needle-nosed rocket plane dropped free from the belly of a B-29 Superfortress at 25,000 feet over Muroc Air Force test center in California last fall.

The pilot, Capt. Charles E. Yeager of Myra, W. Va., braced himself for the terrific jolt of speed as he turned on the first of four rocket motors. He sat curled up in the little plane, his knees almost level with his shoulders.

His arms were straight out. His hands gripped the control columns and his eyes were fastened on the dial of a speed indicator.

The tiny plane leaped forward faster and faster, as one after the other of the four rocket motors were turned on. Yeager looked at the dials and saw that a needle on the speed indicator showed he was flying faster than the speed of sound.

This was the way the short, 25-year-old pilot described his experience as the first man to fly faster than the speed of sound. That speed varies from 760 miles an hour at sea level to 660 at 40,000 feet.

"It was pretty nice, I thought," Yeager explained at a press conference. "It didn't hurt me. You can look at me and see I'm normal."

Open City Plan Hit By Arabs

Reject Request By Bernadotte

CAIRO—(AP)—The Arabs today rejected a proposal of the United Nations mediator to declare Jerusalem an open city.

Fawzi Mulki Pasha, foreign minister of Trans-Jordan, told newsmen the Arab league replied to Count Folke Bernadotte that if Jerusalem was declared an open city, Arab troops would be asked to evacuate positions they conquered there last month. He said this would be in contradiction of the cease fire terms.

An Arab league source also reported the league's political committee rejected an invitation to sit at a conference table with the Jews in negotiations for a permanent Palestine peace.

The Arabs held the old portion of Jerusalem, a mile-square block in the heart of the shrine city, when the four-week truce became effective last Friday.

The Jews held most of the bigger modern city. The Arabs have accused the Jews in the past of ruling out the possibility of an open city by violating the previous Jerusalem truce.

Abdel Rahman Azzam Pasha, secretary general of the Arab league, repeated the Arab position that the Arab states will listen to no proposal for peace which is based upon a Jewish state or partition.

Bernadotte talked with Azzam Pasha and with the premiers of Lebanon and Trans-Jordan.

Housing Bill Hopes Fade

Two Main Backers Concede Defeat

WASHINGTON — (INS) — Two principal supporters of the Taft-Ellenger-Wagner housing bill conceded defeat today in the fight to obtain passage of the controversial long-range program this session.

Rep. Sabath (D-Ill.) predicted the Senate-approved measure will be killed by the House rules committee, of which he is ranking minority member.

The bill contains all of the major provisions of the Senate legislation sponsored by Sen. Taft (R-Ohio). Wolcott sought to submit a housing bill without public housing features of the T-E-W bill, but Democrats, joined by three Republicans, overrode him.

Rep. Monroney (D-Okla.) asserted that failure of the rules committee to approve the bill for prompt floor action virtually doomed its chances of enactment before Congress adjourns.

Banking committee Democrats who sprang a major upset on the House leadership in reporting the TEW bill rather than the Wolcott version warned that they will consider no substitute legislation if the rules committee kills their bill.

The provisions of the TEW bill which they restored in committee consisted of public housing, slum clearance, urban redevelopment, aid to rural housing, and government research.

Action to kill the long-range housing legislation threatened also to kill title six of the federal housing act, under which easy home credit has been extended to veterans. This provision is strongly backed by private realty interests.

Contracts Let For Lake Vessel

LORAIN — (INS) — Immediate work is slated to get underway in Lorain on the construction of the largest and fastest bulk cargo vessel on the Great Lakes.

The Inland Steel company of Chicago announced yesterday the signing of contracts for the huge vessel, first Big Lakes carrier to be built since early in the war, with the American Ship Building company of Lorain.

Foes Bid For Delay On Draft

WASHINGTON — (AP) — House draft foes rallied hopefully today around a plan to keep the issue on ice until next January.

The idea was brought out late yesterday by Rep. Shafer (R-Mich.). It drew quick support from several members opposing a peace-time return to selective service and a tentative endorsement from Rep. Short (R-Mo.) who is leading the floor fight against the bill.

House leaders said a final vote on the draft may not come until tomorrow, although they still hoped to finish it today. Chairman Andrews (R-N.Y.) of the House armed services committee predicted passage by a wide margin—and without the delayed-action Shafer proposal.

Among other amendments which Andrews said he thought would be rejected was one by Rep. Gavin (R-Pa.) to allow the armed services to enlist up to 100,000 aliens for three-year terms.

The Senate-passed bill contains a similar proposal. But the number of aliens was put at 25,000 and their terms at five years.

SETS JAN. 31 DATE

The Shafer plan would hold off registration, as well as inductions until next Jan. 31. The law would go into operation then only if voluntary enlistments had not produced enough men.

In the meantime, the services would have to conduct an intensive recruiting campaign. These would be major inducements:

1. Increasing the pay for all enlisted men 25 per cent.

2. Lowering the passing grade of the Army's aptitude test from 80 to 70 points.

3. Accepting two-year enlistments with the same privileges as enlistments for longer terms.

The bill before the House would hold up inductments for 75 days and then permit them only if the President formally ordered a star..

The bill would require men from 1o through 30 to register. Those from 19 through 25 could be drafted for two years. Most veterans, and members of reserve units, the National Guard and Air National Guard, would be exempt.

The Senate passed its similar bill last week. It would call for registration from 18 through 25, and inductions from 19 through 25.

Police Job Still In Doubt

Police Chief Jesse Schwab said today Miss Marilyn Craven has indicated she probably won't accept the appointment as Mansfield's first policewoman.

Miss Craven was named last week by Service-Safety Director Earl Garrison after she qualified in a civil service examination.

Miss Craven, employed as credit manager by a jeweler, declined to make a statement today.

She was the only applicant for the newly-created post. If she doesn't accept, a new civil service examination will be given. She was scheduled to take over the post July 1.

Tom Woodard, chairman of the civil service commission, said he would confer with City Solicitor C J Kalbfleisch about raising the 29-year age limit on applications for the job. The age range is now set by law from 21 to 28 years

"We would have had lots of applicants if the age limit had been upped just a little," Woodard said

Woodard added that he understood a "money issue" was responsible for Miss Craven's change of mind. He said he understood she had been offered a "substantial wage increase" by her present employer

Hubby Objects To Psychiatry

CLEVELAND —(INS)— A once-trusting husband is seeking $25,000 heart balm in damages from a handsome Cleveland Sunday school teacher and part-time marriage instructor who allegedly practiced psychiatry at night on his wife.

The husband, Paul I. Bringman, 33, of suburban Maple Heights, filed suit yesterday in Cuyahoga county common pleas court alleging that Clayton Nordstrom, 32, alienated the affections of his wife, Mrs. Ellen Jean Bringman, 23.

PASSES OVER VETO

WASHINGTON —(AP)— The House today passed over President Truman's veto $975,914,700 appropriation bill shifting the U. S. employment service from the labor department to the federal security agency.

Senators Restore Billion

Bitter House Fight In Offing

WASHINGTON — (AP) — The Senate's $6,125,710,228 global aid bill headed today for a stormy reception in the economy-minded House which last week voted many millions less.

The Senate approved the unprecedented sum by a 60 to 9 vote shortly after last midnight. If rejected by the House—as it undoubtedly will be—the bill will be sent to a joint conference committee for agreement on some middle ground before Saturday adjournment.

The Senate action added well over a billion dollars to the House-approved bill. It did this chiefly by restoring the world-wide assistance program to a 12-month spending basis instead of the 15 months demanded by the House.

In actual cash, the Senate bill upped the House amount by only $145,000,000 and was still $408,000,000 short of the amount President Truman asked.

Before its vote on the foreign spending bill, the Senate took still another step bearing importantly on American foreign policy By a voice vote it approved a $3,686,733,250 appropriation for the Navy starting July 1.

GOES TO HOUSE

This measure also goes back to the House for action on a Senate boost of more than $125,000,000.

Earlier the Senate also had disposed of a $43,422,061 government corporations bill which carried, among other things, a $30,972,061 appropriations for the Tennessee Valley Authority, including a hotly debated $4,000,000 item to start building a TVA steam plant to generate electricity.

The gigantic foreign aid bill eased through the Senate with comparatively little debate.

The measure earlier had passed its major test when the chamber voted, 64 to 15, to restore the 12-month spending period originally authorized by Congress for the $5,300,000,000 European recovery program.

This program—heart of the American drive to restore western Europe to economic health and stand off communism — was cut only $245,000,000 by the Senate.

Favor Aid Bill

WASHINGTON —(AP)— Sens. John W. Bricker and Robert A. Taft of Ohio voted yesterday to return foreign aid spending to a 12-month basis. The amendment was approved, 64-15.

Buttons Run Plane Daily

BOWLING GREEN —(AP)— An Army push-button plane has been making daily flights between Wilmington, O., and Washington, D. C. since Aug. 1, 1946, Major Gen. Frank O. Carroll said last night.

General Carroll, who is director of research and development of the air materiel command, Wright-Patterson airforce base, spoke at the Ohio aviation clinic.

He said the plane, a four-engine C-54 with gadgets for predetermining its course and landing, on only two days had failed to take off. These failures, he added, were mechanical and not due to weather.

The plane is a product of the army's all-weather experimental division at Wilmington and was designed to cope with any kind of weather.

And, General Carroll reported, it has encountered and conquered all kinds of weather in its daily flights to and from the nation's capital

Talk Unites Two Sisters

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Two years ago Mrs. Maggie McGrift rented a room from Mrs. Bessie White.

Yesterday they had a chat which led to the following discoveries in this order: (1) They both came from Winston-Salem, N. C.; (2) They both had the same maiden name: Adams. (3) They were sisters.

The two women hadn't seen each other since 1924.

GORDON has played in the all-star clash more than any other Indian . . . He's been named at second seven times while Keltner and Boudreau have each made the team six times . . . The Tigers George Kell and the Yanks' Bill Johnson nudged Keltner off the squad for the first time last season . . . Jim Hegan, the Indians fine defensive backstop, is also up for re-election at one of the catcher spots . . . The fans don't pick the pitchers but the Tribe could land three of 'em . . . Bobby Feller has been named six times while Bob Lemon, Indian ace, and Lefty Gene Bearden are trying for their first berths . . . Bearden has the best earned-run average in the majors.

JIMMY LYMPER, the Cleveland Indian scout and Senior High baseball coach, dropped his selections in last night. . . . Jim has two Indians, two Yanks and two Tigers on his American league team. . . . His choices are: George McQuinn, Yanks, first; Gordon, second; George Kell, Tigers, third; Boudreau, short; DiMaggio, Williams and Hoot Evers, Tigers, outfield; Birdie Tebbets, Red Sox, catcher. . . . Lymper's National league team has Mize on first; Emil Verban, Phillies, second; Elliott, third; Marion, short; Musial, Slaughter and Ralph Kiner, Pirates, outfield and Masi, catcher. . . . Even though ballots aren't accepted for pitchers Lymper had a note that Bob Lemon, Indians; Hal Newhouser, Tigers and Joe Page, Yanks would be his American league twirlers, while Harry Brecheen, Cards; Warren Spahn, Braves, and Harry Gumbert, Reds, would handle his National loop chores.

Bob Lemon Belted Out In Sixth

CLEVELAND — (INS) — Kings everywhere but in their own palace—that's the Cleveland Indians.

The Tribe came home yesterday sporting an 8-3 record for the recent successful eastern jaunt, but proved less than a match for the Boston Red Sox as Cleveland dropped a 7-3 nocturnal contest last night at the lakefront stadium.

A total of 51,380 fans welcomed back the Indians and the Clevelanders must have been pretty nervous, for three Tribal errors aided the Bosox greatly in tagging Bob Lemon with his fourth defeat of the season.

Lemon, hottest pitcher in the majors with nine wins, and Boston's Mel Parnell, dueled on even terms for five innings before the dam broke and the Sox sluggers drove the Indian ace from the mound.

Boston scored one unearned run in the fifth and another in the sixth, but Cleveland retaliated with two in the sixth, and it appeared the Tribe was headed for a successful home opening.

COME BACK WITH 3

The Red Sox came back with three runs in the seventh, however, and two more in the ninth off Ed Klieman to sew up the victory.

Cleveland tallied once in the seventh, but by that time one marker was not enough.

Cleveland's two runs in the sixth came as a result of three consecutive hits and a long fly. Allie Clark opened with a single to left and Manager Lou Boudreau followed with another one-bagger. Eddie Robinson's rifle single to right scored Clark and Boudreau came home on Kenny Keltner's fly to deep left.

Joe Tipton opened the seventh with a single and got to third on a walk and a force play. Boudreau singled him home for Cleveland's final run.

Tris Speaker To Speak at Annual Fete

Tris Speaker, who guided Cleveland to its only American league pennant and world series victory, will be the guest speaker at the Presbyterian Men's club father and son banquet next Tuesday.

Known as the "Grey Eagle" for his speed in hauling down enemy drives in the outfield, Speaker was probably the greatest center-fielder in the history of baseball. He gained stardom as a member of the Boston Red Sox's great outfield of Harry Hooper and Duffy Lewis.

Speaker's 1920 Cleveland Indians won the American loop championship and blasted Brooklyn in the series, five games to two.

LEADS IN DOUBLES

Never a long-ball hitter, Speaker led the junior circuit in doubles eight times. His best was 56 for the Indians in 1923. He won the league batting title with an outlay of .386 in 1916.

The banquet is scheduled for the church parlors at 6:15 p. m. Several Mansfield coaches and sport officials will be guests of the Men's club at the fete. Speaker will give his talk in the church auditorium at 8 p. m.

Orlo Smith, president of the club, has invited the public to attend Speaker's talk. John R. Crabbe is general program chairman of the Presbyterian group while Irl Fisher serves as banquet chairman.

Gorman-Rupp Puts League Lead on Block at Ashland

Mansfield Gorman-Rupp will put its North Central Ohio Inter-City Softball league lead on the block tonight when it invades Ashland for a game with the second-place Indians.

Ashland, rated as pre-season pennant favorites, could take over the top spot by virtue of a victory. Gorman-Rupp is the league's only unbeaten team.

Manager Nick Weber has decided to stake his team's fate on the strong right arm of Bobby Regula, who has pitched two of the team's three loop victories. Regula beat Tiffin in the opening game of the season and won from Marion Monday.

Mansfield's other game was a 16-inning tie with Willard.

Gorman-Rupp met the Indians in a pre-season joust and went down to a 4-to-1 defeat. Both teams have been strengthened since then. Dale McKinley and Lefty Jack Stowe split the G-R mound duties in the first meeting.

Cellar-dwelling Tiffin Routh Packers plays at Marion Smitty's Grill in the other league contest tonight.

North Central Ohio Inter-City league play Friday sends Gorman-Rupp to Mt. Vernon and Ashland to Willard.

Zoldak Goes To Cleveland

CLEVELAND —(UP)— The Cleveland Indians today gave up one of their most promising rookie pitchers to obtain Sam Zoldak, a 25-year-old southpaw who is equally at home in starting or relief assignments, from the St. Louis Browns.

Closing the transaction just before the deadline on major league trades at midnight last night, the Indians turned over rookie pitcher Bill Kennedy, another player to be named later and what the Indians' front office called "a large amount of cash."

Kennedy, Cleveland's number one draft choice last winter, gained national prominence in 1946 when he was organized baseball's strikeout champion while playing with Rocky Mount. He struck out 456 hitters that season.

Know Your Golf Shots

By HERMAN BARRON
(AP Newsfeatures)

The long iron or No. 2 iron shot is best played from the square stance with the ball moved back so that it lies a little to the left of the center of your body.

You still take a full hip and shoulder turn on the backswing and follow through just as though you were driving. Concentrate on a slow, smooth backswing. This applies to every shot.

Above all, keep your head down until your swing is fully completed. Grip the club the same way you grip the driver and No. 4 wood. I use the same grip for every shot.

Again your feet should be spread no more than the width of your shoulders.

As the irons get shorter move closer to the ball.

TOMORROW—No. 5 Iron.

Pete Thoma Paces Team To Top Spot

Husky Pete Thoma, Mansfield's longest driver, fired a one-under-par 35 over the inside nine at Possum Run last night to pace the Blue Goose Tavern into undisputed possession of first place in the News-Journal A league.

Blue Goose broke up a three-way deadlock for the top by scoring five points for the evening. The Taverns dropped one match but picked up an extra point on a carry-over medal from last week's match with Orr Typewriter.

Gene Lichtle tied Thoma for medalist honors as he also fired a 35. Hallie Myers, Cedric Mathias and Pete Zeides carded 36's, while Bernie Mathias and Ed Blonston fired 37's. Bernie Mathias defeated Al Hager, who shot a 38, in what was probably the best match of the round.

COMFORTABLE LEAD

Blue Goose now holds a comfortable lead with 16 points, followed by PD's Bar with 13, Penn Auto-Sporting Goods, Myers Supply, Orr Typewriter, Flexible and Ideal Billiards, all with 12 and Smokehouse with 11.

PD's jumped from sixth into second place by taking four points from Penn Auto which had been tied for the lead.

Newhouser Wins Seventh In Row

By JOE REICHLER
(AP Sports Writer)

The inauguration of night baseball in Detroit proved a smashing success—thanks to the strong left arm of Hal Newhouser.

The star Tiger southpaw, pitching the first home night game in history, gave added proof last night he still was the best left-hander in the American league when he twirled a two-hit 4-1 triumph over the Philadelphia Athletics.

It was the seventh successive victory for Newhouser and the fifth in a row for the Tigers.

A near-capacity crowd of 54,480 which came to view the new $400,000 lighting plant saw the Tiger outfield provide Newhouser with all the backing he needed. Left fielder Dick Wakefield belted his third home run of the season, right fielder Pat Mullin smashed his ninth four-bagger and centerfielder Hoot Evers batted in the other two runs with a pair of singles.

FIVE OF SIX

It was Detroit's fifth success in six night engagements, the best record of any club in the majors. It also narrowed the third place New York Yankees' lead to only two games. The Yankees were beaten by the White Sox 9-8 in an 11-inning thriller in Chicago.

Barney McCoskey crashed into the concrete wall while attempting to catch Wakefield's home run drive in the eighth and was carried off the field on a stretcher. It was believed the A's leftfielder escape with a bruised back.

The Yankees overcame a seven-run third inning by the White Sox to deadlock their game 8-8 in the eighth, but the Sox came back with a run in the last of the 11th to win. A single by Taft Wright, a two-base wild throw by catcher Yogi Berra in an attempt to nip the stealing Wright, and pitcher Earl Caldwell's deep fly accounted for the winning run. It was Berra who forced the game into overtime with a three-run homer in the eighth.

The Boston Red Sox spoiled Cleveland's homecoming by handing the Indians a 7-3 setback in a night game in Cleveland.

Johnny Sain pitched the Boston Braves into undisputed possession of the National league lead by defeating the Chicago Cubs in a night game in Boston, 6-3. Sain allowed only six hits in chalking up his seventh victory.

Boston's win, coupled with Pittsburgh's 2-0 victory over the Giants in New York, enabled the Braves to break their first-place deadlock with the Giants. The Polo Grounders fell into a second place tie with Pittsburgh.

The fourth-place St Louis Cardinals remained a game and a half off the pace by edging out the Phillies 2-1 in a night game in Philadelphia. The sixth place Dodgers nipped the Cincinnati Reds 5-4 in Brooklyn. It was the only game played in daylight.

The scheduled night game between the Washington Senators and the Browns in St. Louis was postponed because of rain and wet grounds.

Swimming Pool 'Showoffs' Menace Lives of Others

"Showoffs" around beeches and swimming pools are a menace to life and limb.

DO YOUR RACING toward shore, not away from it.

That is why John Watkins, equatic expert of the Mansfield YMCA, says one of the most important rules of waterfront safety is to never "show off" when you are around boats, swimming pools, or beaches. It may be fun to rock the boat or duck unsuspecting bathers but if your victims can't swim, or should they strike their heads on hidden rocks, humor very quickly turns to tragedy.

Many a "show off" has had to be rescued because he got into a predicament from which he could not extricate himself. Sometimes those going to his rescue suffer injuries or death. The time a lifeguard takes in saving a "showoff" from his own foibles might cost more deserving people their lives.

Another way pe ople get into trouble in the water is by doing their racing away from shore.

"If you're going to have a race," Watkins cautions, "start it out in the water from a float or a dock and then race toward the shore. That way you will be closer to land in case something goes wrong and you have to have help. You also may be able to reach shallow water. Should you be racing toward deep water, you might find yourself in trouble, exhausted, and far from help."

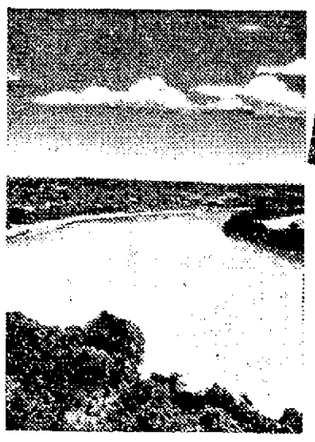
WITH SOHIO X-70

You don't have to take long trips to have a lot of fun in this state of ours. "Just around the corner" is history, beauty, fun!

All over Ohio are beautiful parks in all their natural loveliness. This particular view is in one of the Hocking Parks. What's more fun for all the family than an all-day picnic in one of these cool, quiet spots? It costs so little, too . . . just a picnic lunch and a few gallons of long-mileage Sohio X-70.

Ohio's State Capitol, in Columbus, houses the legislative, judicial and executive branches of our State Government. It was completed in 1861. Thousands of Ohioans visit the State House every year—and the biggest percentage of them use Sohio X-70 to get there! For no other gasoline is so popular with Ohioans.

How the children love to visit the Zoo! The one shown here is in Cincinnati, but there are other outstanding zoos in Ohio. It won't take much long-mileage Sohio X-70 to get to one.



Scenic beauty abounds in Ohio. This scene is from a hilltop overlooking the Ohio River. No matter where you live, there's beautiful countryside right near by. Enjoy it! It costs so little with economical, long-mileage Sohio X-70.

Foreign Expert Doubts U. S.-Russia War Likely

There is no threat of a war between Russia and the western democracies in the forseeable future, Spencer D. Irwin, foreign affairs editor of the Cleveland Plain Dealer, told a capacity luncheon crowd at the meeting of the Mansfield Exchange club at the Leland hotel yesterday.

Propaganda may become more vehement and the "diplomatic footwork" will go on, Irwin said, but there will not be a shooting war because the U. S. won't start it and the Russians don't dare start it, at present.

"Eventually," he said, 'a shooting war may come, but we must remember that Russia is now embarked on a Marxist program of world revolution. This program may collapse just as Russia's Marxist plan for her domestic economy collapsed. The profit motive is now more highly regarded in Russia than in any capitalist nation of the world.

"If we succeed in making democracy and capitalism work, the Russians may become discouraged and give up their plan for world revolution," Irwin asserted.

Looking at the situation in Palestine, the editor said U. S. policy is at least partly to blame for the present situation:

"We favored partition, then we withdrew support of it, now by recognition of the new Israel we are favoring it again. But in recognizing the new Jewish nation I am glad to see Mr. Truman make a good mistake, for once."

The only answer to the Palestine crisis, he said, is to see that—as Sumner Welles, former secretary of state, advises—both the Arabs and the Jews get the land they really deserve.

'SECRET DEAL'

Irwin decried a secret deal which he said is now in the making by the British to give King Abdullah of Trans-Jordan, newly discovered oil lands in the Nega desert as an appeasement move to get him to call off his Arab Legion, the only Arab force with any real organization or power.

If a successful German settlement is not achieved, Irwin explained, the Schumann government will fall in France and Gen. Charles DeGaulle will come to power.

"This would mean dictatorship for France," Irwin said. And he described it as "just as bad as communism so far as personal liberty is concerned."

Irwin blasted U. S. policy in Greece, where Constantin Tsaldaris is being maintained in power "because he'll jump when we want him to," and in Czechoslovakia which the Allies abandoned to Russia at Munich and again at Yalta.

MASAYRK 'MURDERED'

Flatly, Irwin said that Jan Masaryk, former Czech foreign minister, "was murdered by Klement Gottwald," the present Czech president. Masaryk's death was described by the Russians as a "suicide."

"All Western Europe, except Belgium, is being forced to accept socialism to survive," the speaker declared. Then he advised that the U. S. might not like socialism but that it had better work with those countries to overcome it rather than oppose it openly and force Western Europe into the Russian fold.

Finally he declared that negotiations should be resumed with Russia for propaganda purposes if nothing else, and that the average American should speak up more loudly on what he wants his government to do.

Joseph McLean was program chairman. The meeting was presided over jointly by Frank A. Berkey, president, said Robert LeFever, vice-president.

Mayor Says Control of Gaming Problem for Chief of Police

'Slots' Disappear Quickly

Sheriff Finds Machines Gone

Mayor Roy W. Vaughn today left the Mansfield gambling situation in the lap of Police Chief Jesse Schwab.

"As I said before, I'm going to maintain a strictly hands-off policy," the mayor said.

"I think Chief Schwab is doing a good job and I'm not going to interfere or dictate to him. He is free to run his own department," he told a News-Journal reporter

Schwab continued to keep his silence about the return of gambling.

"I still have no comment to make," he said.

"BANDITS" DISAPPEAR

In contrast, Sheriff Frank E. Robinson said today he investigated a News-Journal report yesterday that slot machines were operating at the Richland Driving Range west of the city. He said he found no gambling devices there last night.

A News-Journal reporter played a 5-cent slot machine at the driving range Monday. He said 10-cent and 25-cent machines also were available for play.

"We can't watch every place in the county all the time, and occasionally a machine will be slipped in, but I'm not going to stand for gambling of any kind in the county," Robinson said.

If there are slot machine operations in the county, they are "very limited," the sheriff asserted. He said the machines sometimes are brought out only for certain occasions.

MAYOR 'NOT AWARE'

The mayor, questioned about the return of the Max Mosberg horse bookie at 12½ South Main street and baseball pools, punchboards and poker sheets in dozens of business places in the city, commented:

"I'm not aware the law is being broken."

The gambling devices have been reappearing gradually since April and the horse bookie went back into operation late in May.

A ban on gambling, which Police Chief Schwab said he ordered, lasted for approximately eight weeks during the late winter. The chief had said the ban would be permanent.

President Visits Home

ABOARD TRUMAN TRAIN EN ROUTE TO KANSAS CITY, Mo.—(AP)—President Truman pictured himself today as a champion of the people in their struggle against "special privilege."

In platform talks, Mr. Truman carried on his appeal for votes as his homeward-bound campaign train moved eastward.

"The issue in this country is between special privilege and the people," he said at Albuquerque, N. M., last night.

"I think I represent the people, and I am trying to tell the people just how I represent them."

This is one of the themes at which he has hammered during nearly 60 talks since he left Washington June 3 on a cross-country pre-convention tour.

The President also repeated yesterday that he has been "pouring it on" Congress.

"And they've got the jitters back there," he told an Albuquerque crowd. "They have gone to work."

The President will visit his home in Jackson county, Missouri, late today for the first time since the death of his 94-year-old mother, Mrs. Martha E. Truman, at Grandview, Mo.

Police Oust Workers

CLERMONT-FERRAND, France —(INS)— Work stoppages were staged today in most factories of Clermont-Ferrand after 3,000 "stay in" strikers were evicted from a metal works plant in a battle with police in which 120 persons were injured.

Fire Fighter Becomes Hot Under Collar

WEST CARROLLTON—(AP)—This community's brand-new $10,000 pumper broke down in the middle of the biggest fire here in years.

Fire Capt. William Aufuldish, enraged at heckling by bystanders, tossed his fire hat to the ground, stamped on it and resigned from the force.

Damage to the warehouse on fire was estimated at $10,000.

Reds Say No To Self-Rule For Germany

Reply Rejects 6-Power Plan

WASHINGTON —(U.P.)— Russia has rejected the six power agreement for self-government in western Germany, it was disclosed today.

Diplomatic sources said the Soviet Union's objections to the six power plan to set up a separate western German government were communicated to Sir William Strang, chairman of the London conference, by the Soviet ambassador in London.

The state department said no formal statement regarding Russia's attitude on the plan has been received here from the Soviet embassy. But the rejection communicated to Strang was regarded as applying to all six powers.

Meanwhile, it was disclosed that the United States and Britain have turned down French suggestions that negotiations on the six power agreement be reopened.

Authoritative sources said the two governors believe adequate machinery is available in the agreement to meet French objections.

The plan was announced 10 days ago by representatives of the United States, Britain, France, Belgium, Luxembourg, and the Netherlands.

France is the only nation which has not approved the plan for starting a German government in the three western zones, and placing the Ruhr industrial area under international control.

Closing Club Gives Workers Final Fling

NEW YORK —(AP)— When 160 employes of the Monte Carlo night club walked off their jobs yesterday, the management shut down and threw a party.

The idle workers were invited in for "drinks on the house." Musicians of two bands started a "jam session." Headquarters danced with hat check girls, while kitchen help sat down to a feast in the dining room.

The work stoppage came after eight bartenders struck in a wage dispute, and others joined in a sympathy stoppage.

The management said this and "dwindling receipts" prompted the decision to close down.

Manager Joe Baum, who said he didn't blame the workers for wanting more money, did the honors by mixing drinks for pickets who took turns leaving their sidewalk posts.

Killers Face Death Chair

COLUMBUS —(INS)— Twenty-one-year-old Elmer Curnutt must die in Ohio penitentiary's electric chair July 16 for the hold-up slaying of Thomas Wilson, aged and crippled Cincinnati cafe owner.

The state supreme court fixed the execution date today in denying Curnutt's appeal.

Curnutt's uncle Ova B. Cornutt, 46, will be executed the same night for the same crime unless the courts or the governor intercede.

Session First Outside Capital

The board of directors of the Ohio Chamber of Commerce will convene tomorrow in Mansfield for the first quarterly board meeting ever held outside of Columbus.

The vanguard of the 44 directors, 32 guests, and 11 staff members began registering today at the Mansfield-Leland hotel.

Highlight of the two-day conference is a dinner at the Westbrook Country club tomorrow night. John Ward, executive vice-president of the Alabama State Chamber of Commerce, will speak on "The Southern Businessman's Viewpoint In Regard to Proposed 'Civil Rights Legislation'."

The meeting opens officially with a breakfast tomorrow at the hotel. Harry B. Soulen, president of the Mansfield Chamber of Commerce, and Mayor Roy W. Vaughn will welcome the state officials.

Following a business meeting, lunch at the Westinghouse Electric corporation auditorium and a tour of the plant, the members and guests will travel to the country club for the dinner.

Friday the directors will hold a second business meeting followed by a luncheon at which time C. I. Weaver, president of the Ohio Fuel Gas company, will summarize the work and significance of the two-day meeting.

In the afternoon the conferees will tour the Mohican State park, guided by Louis Bromfield and Bryce Browning, secretary of the Muskingum conservancy district.

The two-day meeting will wind up with a picnic dinner at Malabar farm and the nationally famous annual Bromfield community barn dance at which the O.C.C. directors will be special guests.

Quaker City Awaits GOP

PHILADELPHIA —(INS)— Walter S. Hallanan arrangements committee chairman, announced today that all is in readiness for the Republican national convention starting Monday in Philadelphia.

Hallanan told the final meeting of the committee at the Bellevue-Stratford hotel that little remained to be done except routine tasks such as distribution of tickets and badges.

Completion of the thousand and one details of convention planning was disclosed as the Quaker City began to fill up with Republican leaders, delegates and visitors from all parts of the country.

The majority of the 104 members of the Republican national committee were on hand to put finishing touches on plans for the parley at spacious convention hall in West Philadelphia.

Bunting and flags flew overhead throughout the city streets and enterprising merchants, hotel and cafe owners plastered their places of business with "welcome delegates" sign

Repairs Promised Today

Foul Odor Accents Sewer Repair Need

A broken sanitary sewer line continued today to spill foul-smelling fluid onto the I. A. Barnett company property at 57 West Longview avenue, providing further evidence of the need for an overhauling of the city's sewer system.

Sanitary Engineer B. V BeVier, who repeatedly has called attention to the deteriorating and inadequate city sewer system, said repairs would be made as soon as possible.

An employe of the company said the sewer line broke during the heavy rain Saturday. BeVier's office was notified Monday

Water continued today to bubble from the sewer line A warm breeze carried a disagreeable odor into the office of the Barnett company and other plants in the vicinity.

The sanitary engineer said his overworked crew of 10 men hoped to check the Longview avenue sewer break today as soon as they could finish repairs to an also-broken South Diamond street sewer line.

Complaints of broken sewer lines, BeVier explained, come in faster than the crew can make repairs. "We have from three to four calls ahead of us all the time," he said

The broken Longview avenue line is a line which formerly was used to bring water into the city It now is under lease by the Empire Steel company to permit disposal of plant sewage into the city sewer lines.

"The line is in bad shape and from what I understand, it regularly chokes up and breaks out somewhere," BeVier said

Prohibition Bid Rejected

COLUMBUS —(AP)— The Ohio Supreme court today refused to order Secretary of State Edward J Hummel to print petition forms to enable the Prohibition party to qualify for the presidential election in Ohio next November.

Frank M. McCartney of Columbus had asked for a writ on behalf of the party to compel the secretary of state to supply petition forms so that the party could vote for its nominees for President and Vice-President.

The Supreme court said there was no mandatory duty on the part of the secretary of state to supply the forms

The decision, however, would leave the way open for the party to qualify its nominees by preparing its own petitions and submitting them to the secretary of the state.

How It Feels to Beat Sound

Flight Described By Pilot

WASHINGTON — (U.P.) — A tiny needle-nosed rocket plane dropped free from the belly of a B-29 Superfortress at 25,000 feet over Muroc Air Force test center in California last fall.

The pilot, Capt Charles E. Yeager of Myra, W. Va., braced himself for the terrific jolt of speed as he turned on the first of four rocket motors. He sat curled up in the little plane, his knees almost level with his shoulders.

His arms were straight out. His hands gripped the control columns and his eyes were fastened on the dial of a speed indicator.

The tiny plane leaped forward faster and faster, as one after the other of the four rocket motors were turned on. Yeager looked at the dials and saw that a needle on the speed indicator showed he was flying faster than the speed of sound.

This was the way the short, 25-year-old pilot described his experience as the first man to fly faster than the speed of sound. That speed varies from 760 miles an hour at sea level to 660 at 40,000 feet.

"It was pretty nice, I thought," Yeager explained at a press conference. "It didn't hurt me. You can look at me and see I'm normal."

Open City Plan Hit By Arabs

Reject Request By Bernadotte

CAIRO—(AP)—The Arabs today rejected a proposal of the United Nations mediator to declare Jerusalem an open city.

Fawzi Mulki Pasha, foreign minister of Trans-Jordan, told newsmen the Arab league replied to Count Folke Bernadotte that if Jerusalem was declared an open city, Arab troops would be asked to evacuate positions they conquered there last month. He said this would be in contradiction of the cease fire terms.

An Arab league source also reported the league's political committee rejected an invitation to sit at a conference table with the Jews in negotiations for a permanent Palestine peace.

The Arabs held the old portion of Jerusalem, a mile-square block in the heart of the shrine city, when the four-week truce became effective last Friday.

The Jews held most of the bigger modern city. The Arabs have accused the Jews in the past of ruling out the possibility of an open city by violating the previous Jerusalem truce.

Abdel Rahman Azzam Pasha, secretary general of the Arab league, repeated the Arab position that the Arab states will listen to no proposal for peace which is based upon a Jewish state or partition.

Bernadotte talked with Azzam Pasha and with the premiers of Lebanon and Trans-Jordan.

Housing Bill Hopes Fade

Two Main Backers Concede Defeat

WASHINGTON — (INS) — Two principal supporters of the Taft-Ellenger-Wagner housing bill conceded defeat today in the fight to obtain passage of the controversial long-range program this session.

Rep. Sabath (D-Ill.) predicted the Senate-approved measure will be killed by the House rules committee, of which he is ranking minority member.

The bill contains all of the major provisions of the Senate legislation sponsored by Sen Taft (R-Ohio). Wolcott sought to submit a housing bill without public housing features of the T-E-W bill, but Democrats, joined by three Republicans, overrode him.

Rep. Monroney (D-Okla.) asserted that failure of the rules committee to approve the bill for prompt floor action virtually doomed its chances of enactment before Congress adjourns.

Banking committee Democrats who sprang a major upset on the House leadership in reporting the TEW bill rather than the Wolcott version warned that they will consider no substitute legislation if the rules committee kills their bill.

The provisions of the TEW bill which they restored in committee consisted of public housing, slum clearance, urban redevelopment, aid to rural housing, and government research.

Action to kill the long-range housing legislation threatened also to kill title six of the federal housing act, under which easy home credit has been extended to veterans This provision is strongly backed by private realty interests.

Contracts Let For Lake Vessel

LORAIN — (INS) — Immediate work is slated to get underway in Lorain on the construction of the largest and fastest bulk cargo vessel on the Great Lakes.

The Inland Steel company of Chicago announced yesterday the signing of contracts for the huge vessel, first Big Lakes carrier to be built since early in the war, with the American Ship Building company of Lorain.

Foes Bid For Delay On Draft

WASHINGTON — (AP) — House draft foes rallied hopefully today around a plan to keep the issue on ice until next January.

The idea was brought out late yesterday by Rep. Shafer (R-Mich.). It drew quick support from several members opposing a peace-time return to selective service and a tentative endorsement from Rep. Short (R-Mo.) who is leading the floor fight against the bill.

House leaders said a final vote on the draft may not come until tomorrow, although they still hoped to finish it today. Chairman Andrews (R-N.Y.) of the House armed services committee predicted passage by a wide margin—and without the delayed-action Shafer proposal.

Among other amendments which Andrews said he thought would be rejected was one by Rep. Gavin (R-Pa.) to allow the armed services to enlist up to 100,000 aliens for three-year terms.

The Senate-passed bill contains a similar proposal But the number of aliens was put at 25,000 and their terms at five years.

SETS JAN. 31 DATE

The Shafer plan would hold off registration, as well as inductions until next Jan 31. The law would go into operation then only if voluntary enlistments had not produced enough men.

In the meantime, the services would have to conduct an intensive recruiting campaign. These would be major inducements:

1 Increasing the pay for all enlisted men 25 per cent.

2. Lowering the passing grade of the Army's aptitude test from 80 to 70 points.

3. Accepting two-year enlistments with the same privileges as enlistments for longer terms.

The bill before the House would hold up inductments for 75 days and then permit them only if the President formally ordered a star..

The bill would require men from 1o through 30 to register. Those from 19 through 25 could be drafted for two years. Most veterans, and members of reserve units, the National Guard and Air National Guard, would be exempt.

The Senate passed its similar bill last week. It would call for registration from 18 through 25, and inductions from 19 through 25.

Police Job Still In Doubt

Police Chief Jesse Schwab said today Miss Marilyn Craven has indicated she probably won't accept the appointment as Mansfield's first policewoman.

Miss Craven was named last week by Service-Safety Director Earl Garrison after she qualified in a civil service examination.

Miss Craven, employed as credit manager by a jeweler, declined to make a statement today.

She was the only applicant for the newly-created post. If she doesn't accept, a new civil service examination will be given. She was scheduled to take over the post July 1.

Tom Woodard chairman of the civil service commission, said he would confer with City Solicitor C J Kalbfleisch about raising the 29-year age limit on applications for the job The age range is now set by law from 21 to 28 years.

"We would have had lots of applicants if the age limit had been upped just a little," Woodard said

Woodard added that he understood a "money issue" was responsible for Miss Craven's change of mind He said he understood she had been offered a "substantial wage increase" by her present employer

Hubby Objects To Psychiatry

CLEVELAND — (INS)— A once-trusting husband is seeking $25,000 heart balm in damages from a handsome Cleveland Sunday school teacher and part-time marriage instructor who allegedly practiced psychiatry at night on his wife.

The husband, Paul I Bringman, 33, of suburban Maple Heights, filed suit yesterday in Cuyahoga county common pleas court alleging that Clayton Nordstrom, 32, alienated the affections of his wife, Mrs. Ellen Jean Bringman, 23

PASSES OVER VETO

WASHINGTON —(AP)— The House today passed over President Truman's veto $975,914,700 appropriation bill shifting the U S. employment service from the labor department to the federal security agency.

Senators Restore Billion

Bitter House Fight In Offing

WASHINGTON — (AP) — The Senate's $6,125,710,228 global aid bill headed today for a stormy reception in the economy-minded House which last week voted many millions less.

The Senate approved the unprecedented sum by a 60 to 9 vote shortly after last midnight. If rejected by the House—as it undoubtedly will be—the bill will be sent to a joint conference committee for agreement on some middle ground before Saturday adjournment.

The Senate action added well over a billion dollars to the House-approved bill. It did this chiefly by restoring the world-wide assistance program to a 12-month spending basis instead of the 15 months demanded by the House.

In actual cash, the Senate bill upped the House amount by only $145,000,000 and was still $408,000,000 short of the amount President Truman asked.

Before its vote on the foreign spending bill, the Senate took still another step bearing importantly on American foreign policy By a voice vote it approved a $3,686,733,250 appropriation for the Navy starting July 1.

GOES TO HOUSE

This measure also goes back to the House for action on a Senate boost of more than $125,000,000.

Earlier the Senate also had disposed of a $43,422,061 government corporations bill which carried, among other things, a $30,972,061 appropriations for the Tennessee Valley Authority, including a hotly debated $4,000,000 item to start building a TVA steam plant to generate electricity.

The gigantic foreign aid bill eased through the Senate with comparatively little debate.

The measure earlier had passed its major test when the chamber voted, 64 to 15, to restore the 12-month spending period originally authorized by Congress for the $5,300,000,000 European recovery program

This program—heart of the American drive to restore western Europe to economic health and stand off communism — was cut only $245,000,000 by the Senate.

Favor Aid Bill

WASHINGTON —(AP)— Sens. John W. Bricker and Robert A. Taft of Ohio voted yesterday to return foreign aid spending to a 12-month basis. The amendment was approved, 64-15.

Buttons Run Plane Daily

BOWLING GREEN —(AP)— An Army push-button plane has been making daily flights between Wilmington, O., and Washington, D. C., since Aug. 1, 1946, Major Gen. Frank O Carroll said last night.

General Carroll, who is director of research and development of the air materiel command, Wright-Patterson airforce base, spoke at the Ohio aviation clinic.

He said the plane, a four-engine C-54 with gadgets for predetermining its course and landing, on only two days had failed to take off. These failures, he added, were mechanical and not due to weather.

The plane is a product of the army's all-weather experimental division at Wilmington and was designed to cope with any kind of weather

And, General Carroll reported, it has encountered and conquered all kinds of weather in its daily flights to and from the nation's capital.

U. S. Bids to Prevent Blowup In Coal Contract Parley

Conciliation Chief Calls Conference

Lewis, Operators Asked to Attend

WASHINGTON —(AP)—Towering "Cy" Ching the government's conciliation chief, moved in fast today in a bid to keep John L Lewis and the soft coal operators from getting too mad to talk contract terms

The operators broke off negotiations yesterday saying the sessions were "futile" because of Lewis' strings on bargaining for a new wage-welfare fund pact The present one expires June 30

Ching called both sides to a meeting with him tomorrow morning. And Lewis ordered his own advisers to assemble one week later for what may be a strike strategy huddle.

The Southern Coal Producers association, which won a court order to force Lewis to include its representative in the industry-wide meetings, disagreed with the walkout action of the other operators

But for the moment, at least, the association was unable to do anything about it Lewis said Joseph E Moody, the association president, "walked out, too, leaving us sitting there"

Moody and his board of directors scheduled a meeting today The session took on new importance because of yesterday's rapid-fire developments

The SCPA board could decide to invite Lewis to meet separately and make a contract The United Mine Workers chief expressed the opinion at a news conference that two leading members of the southern group could negotiate an agreement if they wanted to because of their position in the industry. He named J D Francis, head of Island Creek Coal company, and O L. Alexander, president of the Pocohontas Fuel company

The association represents southern companies and individual mines which produce one third of the nation's bituminous coal.

ACTS AFTER "IMPASSE"

Ching, in asking all parties to confer with him tomorrow, said he had been informed they had reached an "impasse" in their own effort at making a contract

Charles O'Neill, spokesman for the Bituminous Coal Operators, said Lewis insisted on "activation" of the 1947 welfare and retirement fund now over $40 000,000, as a 'condition precedent to discussion of a new wage agreement"

O'Neill said that the operators concluded "that further meetings may mislead the public and governmental agencies by creating the impression that an agreement may be effected by this conference

Lewis called his 200-man policy committee to Washington Thursday, June 24—two days before the start of an industry-wide miners' vacation which continues through July 5.

He said he will ask the committee for 'instructions concerning any future plans'

To the man in the street and to the steel and auto industries that means the miners' committee will decide whether there is to be another coal strike July 6—if no new contract has been put together by then

City Council Seeks Funds For Galion

Told 'City Is Being Run on a Shoestring'

GALION—City Council President Otto Pfeifer called on council last night to find ways and means of securing additional funds to operate the city

"The city is now being run on a shoestring," Pfeifer asserted. He made his declaration more emphatic after the reading of a new ordinance, declared an emergency measure, asking for salary increases for employes in various city departments.

The ordinance called for increases of approximately $15 a month for salaried employes and 10 to 30 cents an hour for employes in the police, fire, electric light and power plants water works and sewage and street departments It was referred to the finance committee

Pfeifer's declaration was made after Mayor Hartmann had vetoed a resolution and an ordinance as an economy measure

ACCEPT ONE VETO

The mayor's veto was placed on the resolution which authorized the city engineer to prepare plans and estimates for the improvement by paving one block of West Church street, west of Jefferson street intersection A motion to accept this veto was not seconded Council did accept the mayor's veto on the ordinance which called for the purchase of a new mowing machine for the city

Mayor Hartmann explained to residents of Church street, who were present for the meeting, that he had vetoed the measure to pave the street because it was already too late in the season to do the work now and because the city could not afford to make the improvement He promised the residents that something would be done about the drainage problem on the street

Council will meet in adjourned session Tuesday night to consider legislation by which the city would acquire lots at the East Side playground.

It was explained that this legislation was not ready for last night's meeting because the city solicitor could not be contacted The solicitor was not present at the last two meetings of council

Service-Safety Director John F Porter told council that he had contacted the New York Central Railroad company about the bad condition of the Parson street crossing for both pedestrians and automobiles but that he had had no response from the railroad officials

Walter Lippmann Speaks

U. N. Conception Sound

On three successive days last week three men were heard from who understand the United Nations and are determined to make it work.

On Wednesday County Folke Bernadotte, without any military force at his disposal but with diplomatic support from the great powers, succeeded in mediating a truce in Palestine.

On Thursday the United Nations secretary-general, Mr. Trygve Lie, speaking at Harvard, brought forward a proposal of the secretariat to raise "a small guard force, as distinct from a striking force," to be at the disposal of the United Nations.

On Friday Senator Vandenberg obtained a decisive vote (64 to 4) for his resolution which is in substance a vote of confidence that the present charter need not be scrapped because it can be improved and used more effectively.

The initial success of Count Bernadotte has shown that the basic conception of the United Nations is sound; that is to say, that when the great powers are able to agree that they prefer peace to war, then small wars which could become big wars) can be localized, the fighting regulated and reduced, and the opportunity to mediate the issues created.

That is not everything. But it is a very great deal, and no one who understands the charter or the realities of world politics would expect more. He will not expect the United Nations to resolve the great conflict between east and west. He will know that that can be done only by diplomacy or by war.

But he has a right to expect that the secondary conflicts, of which Palestine is a conspicuous example, can be dealt with through the U. N. -- and without the intervention of large forces.

The root of the American vacillation on Palestine was the belief, based on misinformation and misunderstanding, that the partition recommended by the General Assembly could be carried out only by the intervention of a large international army. Last winter it was the general view—shared by many supporters of Zionism—that an army at least as large as the British, upward of 70,000 men, would be needed to "enforce" partition. Quite rightly, if that was true, Mr. Marshall and Mr. Forrestal refused to send American troops to fight Arabs and Jews in the Holy Land, or to permit the Soviet government to send a division of the Red Army into the Middle East.

But, in fact, as events have shown, no international army was needed to enforce partition. What was needed was diplomatic action to induce the acceptance de jure of the partition which existed de facto. The truce, which Count Bernadotte has arranged, became possible when diplomatic action had been taken in Washington, London, Tel Aviv, Amman and Cairo which made it plain that the great powers would not support a war in defiance of the United Nations. No international army was needed for that. All that was needed was agreement by the great powers to withhold the armed force which only they could supply. A serious war cannot be fought in Palestine by the local armies. Therefore, once the great powers refrained from supporting the war, a truce was possible.

Mr. Lie is now asking for permission to recruit "a comparatively small guard force" by voluntary individual enlistment, after careful screening, and presumably from among the middle and smaller powers.

The purpose of this guard force would not be to coerce armies—Abdullah's Legion, the Haganah King Farouk's troops.

Its purpose in Palestine or elsewhere would not be to wage war on behalf of the U. N. against an aggressor. The U. N. guard would be much too small for that.

Its purpose would be to make visible to the excited and angry people at the scene of the dispute the authority of the United Nations when, as is now the case in Palestine, as has been the case in Indonesia, as may be the case in Kashmir, the U. N. has agreed to mediate.

PAGE FOUR — MANSFIELD, OHIO, WEDNESDAY, JUNE 16, 1948

But, after all, strawberries are a luxury—and at fifty cents, or more, a quart, they are even more so.

One optimistic forecaster has an idea that within ten years television sets "will be within the reach of all"—but at present it's quite a long reach.

Out in Lincoln, Ill., a postman has retired after 44 years of service—a record made even more impressive by his claim that he has never been bitten by a dog while delivering mail.

Many Limit Purchases To Essentials

A RECENT SURVEY was designed to reveal the way families are attempting to meet current high living costs. Heavy majorities reported they were buying only necessities, doing without things they really needed, and trying to make food and clothing "go farther."

This is easy to understand. Relatively few people have managed to increase their income sufficiently to offset price increases and it cannot be doubted that many persons are finding it difficult to meet food and clothing costs for a family which includes several growing children.

Millions of people have been forced to steadily reduce their purchases or to deplete their savings in order to keep going. Installment buying has increased, war bonds have been sacrificed and the whole national economic structure is in a precarious state.

The single item of automobiles can be taken as typical of the changed situation for many people, as even the lowest priced cars have jumped to figures that place them out of reach of many people who had become accustomed to regarding $1,000 as a maximum in the so-called "low price" field.

A man earning reasonable wages or a modest salary could own one of those inexpensive cars and live in a rural or suburban home while holding a job in the city—but with car prices now double, or more, ownership and operation of an automobile becomes a serious problem for persons who are struggling to "make ends meet." The question arises, are cars going to be permanently priced beyond the range of the average income group, and if so, what will happen to the suburban and rural way of life that was made possible and built upon the foundation of every family owning its own car?

'No Comment' Is Elusive Answer

THAT REPLY, "No comment," has a proper place in some instances when a police department official is being questioned on a subject which involves investigation of a crime, in which temporary secrecy is essential to tracking down a criminal.

It lacks justification, however, as used by Chief of Police Jesse Schwab when being interviewed by a News-Journal reporter yesterday on the subject of resumption of gambling activities in Mansfield.

It should be understood by Chief Schwab, and other public officials, that inquiries made by representatives of a newspaper are not designed to satisfy the idle curiosity of either the reporter or others associated with the newspaper, but are intended to disclose information to which readers are entitled . . . these readers being the citizens of the community and the employers of the elective and appointive officials who are chosen to perform certain specific duties.

Laws—state and municipal—clearly prohibit those forms of commercialized gambling that are again in operation in Mansfield after Chief Schwab had said, last January 31, they were "permanently" banned.

At that time Chief Schwab was credited with sincerity—but something has happened in the meantime that appears to have caused him to resume disregarding state and local laws against commercialized gambling. Chief Schwab is still credited with honest intent and it is the public's right to know what forces have been effective in bringing about a reversal of what seemed to be a firm stand against illegal gambling operations in this city.

"No comment" does not satisfactorily answer the questions your employers, the people of Mansfield, are asking, Chief Schwab, and they question your right—or the right of any other law enforcement official—to decide which laws should be enforced and which ones dare be ignored.

Clamp Down On Pilots Who 'Buzz'

PECULIAR though it may seem to those who enjoy using their time on Sundays at their favorite hobby or sports, there are in Mansfield some folks who go to church.

Among those who have no respect for the church-going desires of Mansfielders quite evidently was the Army airplane pilot who buzzed over the city at about 11:14 a. m. last Sunday.

The plane sped across the sky with such a roar that many non-churchgoers left their homes to investigate, in the belief the plane might be in difficulty. Hundreds of others who sat in church pews were much annoyed.

As Mansfield comes of age aeronautically, it would seem quite appropriate that the city provide a penalty for fliers who disregard the welfare of residents of the city. Particularly appropriate, it would seem, would be a severe penalty for any pilot—Army or civilian—who disturbs the quiet of Sunday church services.

America Has Variety of Aspects

PUBLISHERS are discovering the United States. The rivers of America are being treated one by one in a series of interesting volumes. Another set of books treats of the five Great Lakes. American railroads are having their history recorded in individual volumes.

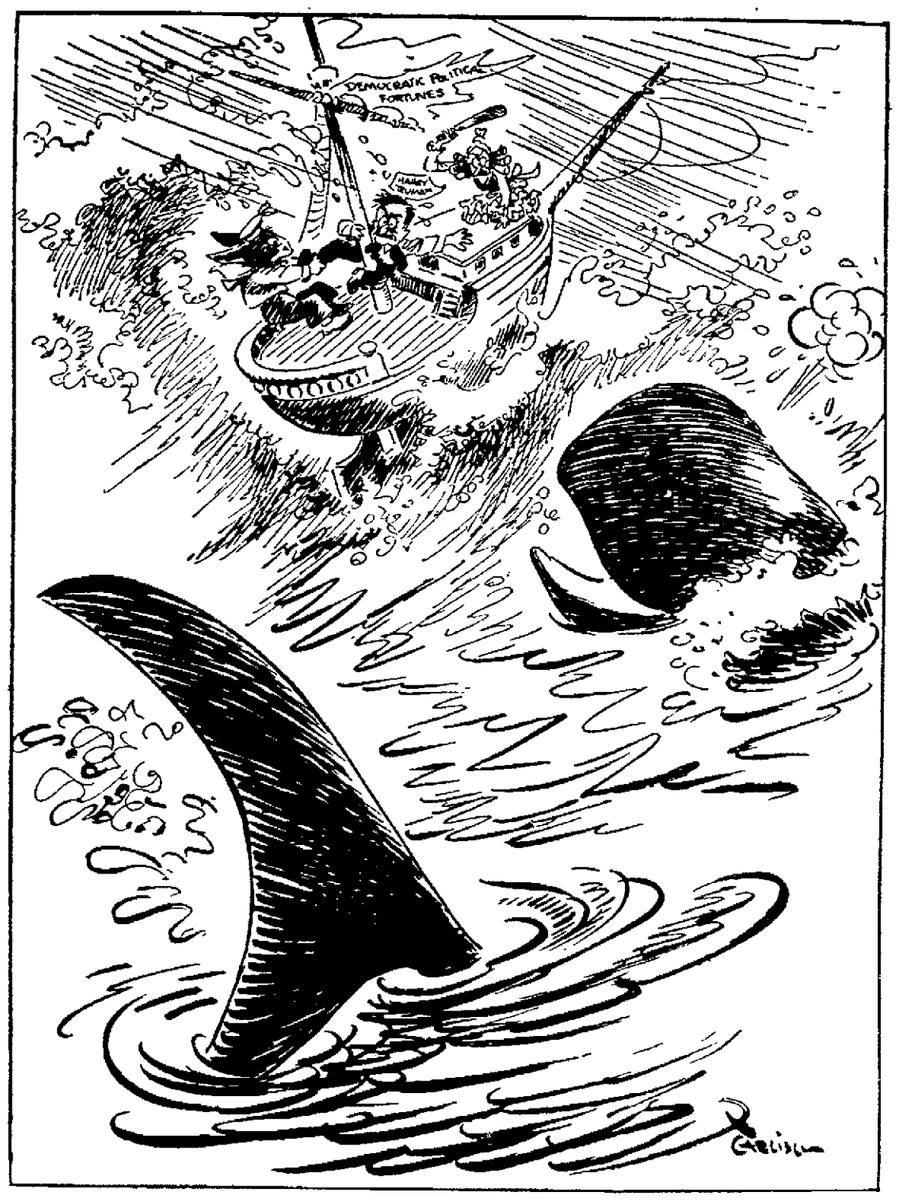
Two new series are on the way. "The Peoples of America Series" will depict the contribution made by citizens of foreign stock. And the "Society In America Series" will take up different American cities, not from the purely historic point of view, but with the aim of showing what social life is like there.

These are not blind studies in self-admiration. They put American local pride on a sounder basis. They do not exhaust the field of possible subjects. Energetic publishers will find other American topics equally rewarding.

Claude Callan comments: "It is difficult to understand people who can work hard for a good cause. Most of us can't put forth our best efforts for anything except spite."

Time marches on—and an item referring to planned separation from her husband reveals that little Elsie Janis has reached the age of 58—can you imagine that!

There's a rumor around that the 40-hour work year is beginning to tell on heavyweight champion Joe Louis.



The Unwilling Jonah.

Viewing the National Scene

Truman States His Case

By THOMAS L. STOKES

PRESIDENT TRUMAN has accomplished two things in his trip across the country.

He has aroused interest in himself, the man Harry Truman. He has unveiled himself to the multitudes who have come out to see and hear him—and for the first time—as a very human and understanding person who is interested in their problems and welfare.

He has established a kinship with average folks. And, behind the friendly surface, he has shown himself as a scrapper with considerable punch, ready to call names and punches, and to do that in behalf of the plain people.

"I'm fighting for you," he says. "Now you do something for yourselves."

In the second place, he has raised up an enemy, both for himself and for those who support his principles. He has pointed to a target. That enemy and that target is Congress.

Since Congress is controlled by the Republican party, that enemy becomes identified as the Republican party.

In Congress the Republican party has made the record on which not only the party must stand but on which its candidate for president who is chosen next week at Philadelphia must stand.

Thus, concretely, the President has made the issue for the coming campaign, the issue for himself and the Democratic party. Time and time again, he has told the people who have gathered to see and hear him at scores of towns and cities that this Congress has done little for them, and that he is coming back later on to spell out its real record as compared with what Republicans have been telling the people they have done, and what they will tell the people they have done at Philadelphia.

This he expressed most succinctly at Tacoma, Wash., when he said: "We are going to find the records, and I am going to explain them from one end of the country to the other, and the people are going to know just what the conditions are, so that when this 80th Congress adjourns, and they go off to Philadelphia later on, and they will be telling you what they did, I am going to tell you what they didn't do. Then you can make up your minds."

* * *

Not Easy to Understand.

THE PRESIDENT has planted seeds of doubt and suspicion about the Republican party's management of Congress. This, it is evident from the reaction of the crowds, has had its effect and will have its effect.

He has told simply and effectively a story that most of them have not known because of the difficulty of following the complicated actions of Congress. He has portrayed it to them as a dramatic personal conflict between himself, on the one hand, and Congress, on the other. He has named names and fixed dates.

Here the President concededly has faced a hard task. It is not easy for the people ordinarily to separate responsibility between a president and Congress.

Usually they are lumped together in the average person's mind as something off in Washington which is, to them, vaguely "the government," and the head of "the government," the president, gets the credit or blame for what "the government" does.

Except rarely, as now, they are one and the same. A divided government is the exception. The President has tried to show how that is true now, an elementary lesson, but a necessary one.

Republicans, themselves, are very conscious of the dilemma in which this places them if the President can pin down responsibility. That is why some of the more politically astute party leaders were none too happy when the party captured both branches of Congress in the 1946 election and thus was unable to evade responsibility.

It is obvious that the President has drawn blood from the screams and screeches from Republicans in Congress. For the first time he seems to have the Republican party on the defensive, whether it will last long or not. The reaction from Republicans in Congress has been very pleasing to the President and his party.

Farmer's Diary

Successful Hoe-Down

By CALVIN A. BYERS

OUR FIELD of corn was planted the first week of May, on the day it started raining. Never afterwards did it get dry enough to cultivate, until both weeds and corn had made a fine start. Some days were too cold—it turned yellow. Many days were wet. We feared it might rot in the ground. To complicate matters, the pigs got in and went neatly down several rows, eating all the sprouts. That part must be replanted!

We debated whether or not to disk up the field, and replant it—in June. But meanwhile, we were hard at work planting soybeans and setting out berry plants. Time solves many things. The ground dried off, the sun came out, the young corn began to assert itself in competition with ragweeds and grass.

"It needs hoeing," we said. But it looked like too big a job. Then we saw the old man on the neighbor's farm last year a Displaced Person in Germany now here with his son- and he had his hoe and was tackling alone the two acres of corn planted on the same day as ours. He did a beautiful job.

We counted noses, and bought three new hoes. We counted rows and decided on a certain stint for each day. We set the alarm, and got up at six, to begin. The field is nice, at that time of the day, and a round before breakfast gives a fine appetite. By the time the sun gets hot, on weeds and workers, the swimming hole bank, along Honey Creek, entices. Then a rush of four pairs of boyish feet, and a splashing and plopping as they dive in like frogs.

At the present writing we are more than half done with the job, every hill replanted. I suggested we each take a pocketful of seed and put in missing corn, as we hoed. It worked fine, but one boy thought of a better way. He filled his mouth, and spat two grains out wherever it was needed, keeping both hands at work all the time.

I like to work among the four, telling a story to relieve monotony, while I spurt on ahead a short distance. Then all the hoes fly until all four are even with me. After lunch, when it is time to go I go alone. Soon every boy is there beside me, working as one. Ten rows at every round soon make an impression.

As Cerf Tells It

The nine-year-old son of a famous radio comedian came down with influenza, and his mother sought to entertain him while he tossed disconsolately about his bed. "How's for my reading you some of Grimms fairy tales?" she suggested cheerfully. He said, "Okay," very grudgingly, and then added, "Why don't you just give me the punch lines?"

LIFE'S LIKE THAT

"I hope it's nothing trivial. . . . You got ME out of a sick bed!"

Washington Merry-Go-Round

Senate Republicans Think Well of Taft

By DREW PEARSON

(Editor's Note: On the eve of the Republican convention, Drew Pearson begins a series of columns diagnosing the prospective Republican candidates. Today's column discusses Senator Robert A. Taft.)

* * *

WASHINGTON — If the members of the U. S. Senate had their choice in selecting a Republican candidate for president, most of them would vote for Robert A. Taft.

This is because they like him, consider him a square-shooter, a man who always keeps his word. And this goes for a lot of Democrats, too. Even when they disagree with Taft, they pay tribute to his honesty and courage.

This, in a body where men live cheek-and-jowl, know each other's faults and failures, is no mean compliment.

It is also said in the Senate, even by those who like him, that: "Bob Taft is always right the second time."

And a friendly examination of his record indicates that this is true. Sometimes, in fact, Bob has had to wait for the third or fourth round to get right.

In 1943, for instance, Taft led the fight against the Roosevelt aid-to-education bill, and defeated it. This year he is leading the fight for it. In explanation he frankly states: "I had to give the problem a lot of study and saw there was a real need."

But is took five long years for Taft to wake up to the need—five years during which schoolhouses bulged, new war babies grew up, and the literacy rate in the U.S.A. dropped to a level comparable with Russia's.

Two years ago, also, Taft was leery of veterans housing. Now he has led the fight for long-range housing, including help for veterans housing. Two summers ago he was blasting the OPA and on July 1, 1946 flatly predicted: "The President's figures on possible price increases are a wild guess and for the most part dead wrong."

Prices, of course, have been going up ever since. And today, June 16, 1948, prices are much nearer the figure set up by Harry Truman than by Bob Taft.

In January, 1947, Harry Truman sent to Congress an economic recommendation for the nation, which didn't go down with the Republican Senate at all. But in September of the same year, Bob Taft, speaking before the Commonwealth club of San Francisco, outlined the same general program.

Once again Bob Taft was right the second time.

* * *

Taft Appraises Self.

IT IS doubtful if Taft had his own changing social and economic views in mind, when, back in 1939, he remarked to a friend:

"They say I've improved since I've come to the Senate, but I'm just the same as I ever was."

However, it is a fact that Taft has improved. He is still just as brusque, just as frank, just as inclined to step on people's toes—though with such open-faced honesty that you have to admire it.

But Taft has changed when it comes to policies—and changed radically. He has become more liberal. For a man of Taft's background this is a revolutionary change.

For you have to remember that he springs from a family that put one grandfather in the Grant cabinet as secretary of war, sent another grandfather as ambassador to Russia, elected one president of the United States; and that the Taft family, owners of utility stocks, real estate and a prosperous Cincinnati newspaper, is one of the wealthiest in Ohio.

The tax laws that Taft sponsored while an Ohio state senator, for instance, in no way hurt the family fortunes. Nor have the tax revisions voted by the Republicans at this session of Congress been much different.

However, those who watch Taft daily detect a steady shift away from the rank reactionarism of House Republicans who would dump everything in the lap of big business, and predict that, one year hence, Taft will be proposing just as heavy high-bracket taxes as Harry Truman.

Once again, they say, Bob Taft will be right the second time.

* * *

Taft the Isolationist.

IN THESE difficult days, however, a president of the United States has to be right most of the time, the first time up to bat.

Especially he has to be right on foreign policy. And, although some isolationists still consider Taft right, the majority of the nation and Congress has voted him wrong on the most vital foreign problems facing the nation.

Before Pearl Harbor, for instance, Taft opposed every single major defense issue. If Congress had followed his leadership we would have been so miserably prepared that the Axis could hardly have been defeated.

Washington Calling

An Estimate of Dewey

By MARQUIS CHILDS

OF THE three candidates likely to deadlock at the Philadelphia convention, Gov. Thomas E. Dewey would seem at this writing to have the greatest chance of ultimate victory.

He has never drawn down on himself the active hostility of GOP potentates as Harold Stassen has. In popular favor, he has always shown a far better rating than Senator Robert A. Taft.

His greatest asset is the efficiency with which he has organized and directed the government of the richest and most populous state in the Union. Many thoughtful persons, observing the confusion and conflict in Washington, have come to feel that a man of Dewey's cold-blooded, hard-boiled efficiency is essential to restore order and get teamwork in government.

Applying the adjective cold-blooded, you immediately tag Dewey with his greatest handicap. He lacks the warmth of personality which is a traditional property in the knapsack of the ambitious American politician. One result has been a host of wisecracks invented by those who dislike the precise, efficient governor.

The primary luck the doubters feel is any deep or sure conviction. They regard Dewey as a weathervane, inclined to turn with whatever wind is blowing. Certainly he is a shrewd politician with a careful sense of timing.

Dewey would have preferred to have directed his primary campaign from Albany, impressing the voters by his attention to duty. But Stassen's phenomenal success in Wisconsin, where Dewey failed to win a single delegate, and the threat of a similar victory in Oregon forced a change in strategy.

Dewey conducted a remarkable three-week campaign in which he got his hair mussed up and his hands dirty and came out with a decisive win over Stassen.

* * *

Political Diplomacy.

DEWEY'S astute campaign manager, Herbert Brownell, declared in a recent interview that his man now had sufficient second and third-ballot votes to win. This claim comes from all the candidates. In Dewey's case, it is likely to have more realism behind it.

On foreign policy the New York governor has until recently had little to say, and that in broad generalization. This was in accord with the fiction that he was not a candidate for the presidency.

In general, however, he has supported the need for the U. S. to take a role in the world consistent with America's vast economic and industrial power. He is one of the candidates damned by extreme isolationists in the Chicago Tribune wing of the party.

With Dewey in the White House, the secretary of state would be John Foster Dulles, the New York corporation lawyer who has taken an active part during the past two years in helping shape the bipartisan foreign policy.

Extremely able, Dulles is a controversial figure, the target of charges from the left that he seeks to restore Europe's cartels for the benefit of his corporation clients.

Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg also is close to Dulles. It is quite possible that if Vandenberg were the compromise nominee and elected in November he would likewise name Dulles as secretary of state.

On domestic issues Dewey's record is spotty. On the question of power, which President Truman has stressed so heavily in his tour of the Pacific Northwest, Dewey in Oregon first declared himself in favor of regional development of river basins, then repudiated the authority concept as represented by TVA.

He has tended to point with pride to the record in New York state, and with some justification. A state fair employment law has helped to break down racial barriers. It is a pioneer effort that has won Dewey the suspicion of southern Republicans.

The New York governor points with pride to veterans' housing built with state aid. On aid to education, Dewey compelled the legislature to pass the burden of higher salaries, new schools and so on to the counties, and this caused an angry outcry.

Dave Boone Says:

THIS is honorary-degree time and the papers are full of lists and pictures, but the one that impressed us most was that of Betsey Barton, daughter of Bruce Barton, getting the degree Master of Humane Letters. Miss Barton, in the very flower of girlhood, was crippled by a fall from a saddle horse. But she has carried on with a smile, nevertheless.

* * *

Her books have encouraged and cheered people who are under some physical handicap. They are things of spirit and beauty. Betsey walks on crutches with difficulty, but of all the pictures of honorary-degree folks I've seen hers was the only one whose smile looked genuine.

* * *

The other day there was a parade of 100,000 Sunday-school children in Brooklyn. General Eisenhower reviewed it, he said, "Because of the tremendous importance of these children in the future of America and the need for spiritual training."

* * *

Parades of Sunday-school and church societies wouldn't do any harm these days. The American Sunday school has been a great national institution through the years.

Assignment: America

Voters Haven't Decided

By KENNETH L. DIXON

WASHINGTON — Convention-year cuffnotes of a roving correspondent.

"Don't know yet . . ."

Gradually, during recent weeks of wandering through several states, this reporter has come to the conclusion that American voters are setting some sort of a record with their wait-and-see attitude toward presidential aspirants.

Time and time again, even in states notorious for hewing to the line of one party or the other, replies to candidate-preference questions were "I don't know yet," or "Haven't made up my mind just yet," or "Guess I'll wait and see who they are and how they stack up when they start talking turkey."

Chief significance of this trend seems to be the definite threat of party-jumping on both sides, and curiously for identical reasons—often summed up by the twin catch-phrases "to radical" and "too reactionary."

Also, it might hint that the old basic party platform differences are becoming blended to the point where they're getting a bit confused.

In any case, of perhaps secondary significance is the fact that it places the Republican leaders somewhat on the spot, stressing the necessity for them to choose a candidate who can—among many other things—successfully carry the campaign fight to the people, rather than relying on pleasing the sectional party chiefs. The Republican primaries and President Truman's cross-country junket have shown that it's going to be that kind of a campaign.

And the public's wait-and-see attitude indicates that the personality which can sway the "mostest voters lastest," so to speak, will probably belong to the next president.

* * *

"Unquenchable Ike."

MOST persistent belief, despite his innumerable denials, is that General Eisenhower still remains a good presidential bet on the pre-convention books. This seems to be for a double reason.

First is the conviction of a surprising number of people that Ike's name, if introduced at a dramatic moment, might well sweep either—and I repeat, either—convention. And even many who do not hold to that belief will tell you that, should he by any chance be nominated, he would be a shoo-in to win.

Second is the not particularly surprising conviction of most people that nobody, Ike's protestations notwithstanding, will actually reject a seemingly cinch ride into the White House.

* * *

"The Kilkenny Cats."

ROARS of wrath from the political camps concerned undoubtedly will result from this comment, but it remains unquestionably true that a sizeable cross-section of ordinary citizens—at least in the states visited by this correspondent—are still convinced that the Republican nominee will not be Dewey, Stassen or Taft. (Foregoing listing is purely alphabetical, to avoid any charge of prejudice).

Basis for that theory seems to be the belief that, after the fashion of the legendary Irish felines, they will have pretty well clawed one another up by the time the convention balloting begins to get decisive.

Ideas as to who would benefit from such a deadlock vary greatly, including Senator Vandenberg, California Governor Warren, House Speaker Joe Martin and, of course, General Eisenhower. In addition, there are countless well-supported "favorite sons" whose backers are bucking hard to get them the dark-horse nod.

Calls Heart No. 1 Killer

Speaking to approximately 80 members of the Mansfield Rotary club Tuesday, Dr. Francis J Heringhaus, Mansfield heart specialist, gave the club members some food for thought in his address on "Heart and Circulatory Diseases."

"Heart disease is the number one cause for death in the United States and in the world and, as in the cancer disease, the cause of the majority of the cases remains unknown," he said.

"We are supplied with two lungs and two kidneys but only with one heart, and life stops when that heart ceases to pump for just a few seconds.

"Present medical research in diseases has created an apparent economic problem with the government finding it is adding, each year, more and more people eligible for social security benefits in old age pensions

"If the physicians can succeed in finding the solution for the actual cause of these heart and cancer diseases" he concluded, "then they may hope to see the day when someone dies of old age"

If you aren't satisfied with the results return the empty bottle to the manufacturer and your money will be refunded. You need never know a hungry moment while taking Rennel—no starvation diet—no printed diet list to buy—no vitamins to fortify you against weakness while going hungry, for you WON'T be hungry. Marilyn Grandon Becomes Bride Of John Kleer In Church Rite

ANNOUNCEMENT is being made of the marriage of Miss Marilyn Mae Grandon, 575 Stocking avenue, and John Kleer jr., 596 Bowman street. The closed church ceremony was solemnized on Memorial day, May 30, at 1:30 p. m. at the St. Mark's Lutheran church.

The bride is the daughter of C. E. Grandon, of this city, and Mr. Kleer's father is John Kleer sr., 398 Taylor road.

Rev. C. A. Portz officiated for the service and a program of nuptial music was played by Mrs. Portz. Altar vases filled with pink and white carnations and beauty baskets of pink and white flowers formed a pretty background for the ceremony.

For her wedding Miss Grandon chose a white tropical suit, dressmaker style, trimmed with two rows of buttons from neck to waistline. Her hat was of white straw with bow at the back and trimmed with veiling. Completing her bridal ensemble was a purple-throated white orchid.

Her only attendant was Mrs. John L. Carr (the former Naomi Grandon), sister of the bride, who wore a light blue tropical suit of dressmaker style, made with a flared jacket. Other accessories were a Panama hat banded in navy and navy shoes. She wore a corsage of yellow roses.

Serving as best man was William R. Kleer of Mansfield, brother of the bridegroom.

On June 27 they will leave for a trip to New York City. At the present they are residing at the Stocking avenue address.

The bride was graduated from Mansfield Senior high school in the class of June 1947 and is a member of Unit Two, Nu Phi Mu sorority. She is employed as a stenographer in the purchasing department of the Mansfield Tire and Rubber company.

Mr. Kleer attended Union Rural high school and is employed at the Tappan Stove company.

Close friends of the bride learned of her marriage recently when Mrs. Carr and Mrs. Gilbert Heuberger, sister of the bridegroom, entertained at the Carr home, 575 Stocking avenue. Sixteen were in attendance at which time the honoree was given a shower of linen gifts. The evening was spent in making a bride's book.

Guests learned of the nuptials when refreshments were served. Mrs. C. K. Dye found the marriage certificate at her place. At each guest's place were crepe paper fans in the pastel shades, in keeping with the other table appointments. Between the blades of the fan was hidden a picture of the bride and groom with the following inscription, "Marilyn and Johnny—May 30, 1948—1:30 p. m. at St. Mark's Lutheran church."

Horoscope

For Thursday, June 17.

A STARTLING new discovery, a stroke of genius or scientific invention or finding, might have power to change entirely the tides of destiny, although such might demand the abrupt termination of the status quo and a sensational turning of the contacts, affairs and interests into new fields. The sudden spading-up could be complete and far-reaching, if not revolutionary. Strange techniques, executed with firm and persistent hand, with aggressive, strenuous, even dramatic potency, should be sustained by sound thinking and workable creative force. The element of romance should not be lacking, with probable adventure in fresh pastures.

For the Birthday.

Those whose birthday it is, may prepare themselves for a spectacular intervention of fate, in which something unusual, startling and of practical worth should be demonstrated with much practical ingenuity and application. Constructive endeavors in putting over unique skills or curious discoveries could prove revolutionary and far-reaching in their final denouement.

A child born on this day is brilliantly endowed with ingenuity, skill, inventive genius, with the force, determination and influence to reap rich returns.

Teen-Age Dances Are Regular Feature at Moose Lodge

Sons and daughters of members of the Moose lodge will attend the second teen-age dance Thursday night. The first dance was held on May 20 and the teen-agers requested a repeat performance.

From 7:30 to 8:30 p. m., Grover Kline will instruct the young people in square dancing in the ballroom of the Moose lodge. At 8:30 p. m. Frank Miller's orchestra will take over for more modern dancing.

When the first dance was held, no others were planned, but the group now expects to make these dances a regular monthly event, lodge officials said.

The dances are open to all teen-age children of members and any friends they may wish to bring. Officers of the lodge and their wives act as chaperones.

The committee in charge of the dances include Edmund T. Pelasky, lodge governor and Lloyd Hughes.

City Officials Discuss Merger

In an effort to merge the two groups to provide themselves with a more effective voice, eight officials of the Ohio League of Municipalities and the Ohio Association of Cities meet in Mansfield tomorrow.

The two groups have asked Gov. Thomas J. Herbert to call a special session of the state legislature to provide financial relief for hard-pressed cities.

If a successful merger plan is drawn up tomorrow, it is probable that the official merger of the OLM and the OAC will take place in Mansfield early in August.

Jet-Propelled Imagination Can Give You World Tour In One Daze

NEW YORK—(AP)—Ever been around the world in a single daze?

That's the way I travel when my pocketbook is already too pleasure-bent to support a journey. I buy a hypothetical hop to anywhere I choose and enjoy it at home.

It's the only way I know that two can travel as cheaply as one. I go first cabin, take Frances along and scatter $5 tips like grass seed.

"I don't have to look at museums I never wanted to see. I don't have to admire the dilapidated grandeur of local ruins pointed out by a guide whose dogged good nature doesn't hide the fact he's tired of them, too.

I don't have to fall for Niagara Falls or lean toward the leaning tower of Pisa—unless my bent inclines that way. I don't have to get accustomed to the local customs, or be a customer of the customs men.

★

Like Stephen Leacock's hero, I can jump on my horse and ride off in all directions — at once. How?

I have an old game I've been playing, Walter Mitty style, since I was knee-high to a Rand-McNally. It's called "Supposing." It begins with, "Supposing somebody gave you $10,000 and said you could travel anywhere in the world. Where'd you go?"

You get out the atlas and the battered school geography — the big one you used to hide your Frank Merriwell book inside during class. Then you figure out where your money will buy the most adventure—and you scoot off on your jet-propelled imagination.

Over the years I've changed my mind often about where I'll like to spend the $10,000 donated by the mysterious stranger. As a child I was fascinated with pictures of strange, faroff places. I suppose my first choice, now as then, would be to spend three months taking the pulse of the heart of darkest Africa. But I also suppose they throb the voodoo music now on a drum mail-ordered from darkest London.

During the war I was in 51 countries. Many were lands I had yearned to see in boyhood, but they draw me no more, particularly the large, sick, civilized places. Too many of them have "American bars" and specialize in "Yankee malted milks," innocent of ice cream, and offbeat jazz bands, guilty of musical murder.

But omitting the out-of-the-way places like the Brazilian jungle and the Isle of Bali, where the slim brown girls walk with water jugs on their heads, graceful as panthers, I'd most like to see three countries I missed — New Zealand, Finland and Ireland.

New Zealand was the only country I didn't get to visit in the Far East. I'd like to go there because other travelers have told me it is the most civilized country in the world and people live longer there than anywhere else. I'd like to find out why.

Why Ireland? Not so much because it's green and beautiful, but because every American in his heart wants to go back and see where his ancestors came from. I want to check up on whether the English really ran my grandfather out—as he said—or whether his neighbors did.

★

As for Finland, no one I've known who has been there has anything but admiration for the honesty and courage of its people. I want to have a look at this small tough land whose independence even the Russians have come to respect.

There goes my mythical $10,000—and it'll give me a ten grand time. Where would you spend yours—in a wonderful one-daze journey?

Ex-Empire Officials Head Firm

Former Mansfielders Form Steel Company

A group of former officers of the Empire Steel corporation, headed by Joseph B. Montgomery jr., Mansfield, and Samuel E. Magid, of New York, today announced formation of the Penn-Ohio Steel corporation and the leasing of the Naval Industrial Reserve plant at Birdsboro, Pa.

Montgomery, formerly chairman of the board and president of the Empire Steel corporation, which was sold last winter to the Studebaker corporation, is president of the new company.

Magid, formerly chairman of Empire Steel's executive committee, has been elected chairman of the board of Penn-Ohio Steel, he also is vice president of Hill, Thompson and company, New York investment firm.

Montgomery resigned June 7, 1947, because of "differences among the board of directors regarding company policies." He was with Empire 10 years. D. W. Frease of Dover succeeded him.

LAKE HOLDS POST

Other officers of the new company include: William Lake, vice president in charge of production, and Roy I. Mitchell, vice president and comptroller. Both held similar positions with Empire Steel. J. G. Baker, president of General Steel corporation, will be chairman of the executive committee.

Montgomery said that Penn-Ohio Steel corporation is expected to be in production of ingots within the next 30 days.

Main offices of the corporation are in Birdsboro, which is south of Reading in eastern Pennsylvania.

Montgomery told the News-Journal today that he would maintain his home here and his farm near Mifflin although he will reside at least temporarily near Birdsboro.

He described the Birdsboro plant as "a $10,000,000 installation."

Program Planned At Port

75 Planes To Salute Guard

Mansfield's 164th Fighter Squadron of the Ohio Air National Guard will be activated Sunday at public ceremonies to be held at Mansfield airport.

Seventy-five P-51 fighter planes from Air Guard squadrons in four states will fly over Mansfield and maneuver over the airport in an aerial salute to the newly-installed guard unit here.

The planes will come from Ft. Wayne, Ind., Lockbourne Air Base, Columbus; Indianapolis, Louisville, Ky.; Charleston, W. Va., and Dayton. Embracing all the other units in the 55th Fighter Wing of the National Guard, the planes will combine in one single unit and proceed to Mansfield.

The aerial salute will be one of the highlights of the airport ceremony which is expected to draw thousands of spectators.

The 65-piece military band of Lockbourne Air base will appear at the ceremonies for a concert beginning at 1:30 p. m.

SWEARS IN 200

Some 200 officers and enlisted men will be formally sworn into Air National Guard service during the ceremonies by Col. Lamont Saxton who is conducting the recruiting drive here.

Other recruits are being processed and will be prepared for the activation ceremonies Sunday. Recruiters advised others interested in joining the guard to do so between now and 8 p. m. Friday so that they can become a part of the initial guard force.

Heading the list of high military men who will appear here and give brief talks during the ceremony are Maj. Gen. C. W. Goble, Ohio's adjutant general; Brig. Gen. K. C. Cooper, assistant adjutant general; Gen. Leo H. Kreber, commander of the 37th division, and Brig. Gen. E. H. Zistel, wing commander. Members of their staffs and wing commanders from the 55th Fighter Wing also will attend.

The program will take place from a platform to be erected adjacent to hangar No. 7 at the airport.

Members of the immediate families of the air guardsmen will be seated in a reserved section close to the activation ceremonies.

An exhibit of some of the fighter planes that will be used in training here will be set up at the airport Sunday morning.

Scouts Open Camporal

500 Expected at Camp Avery Hand Thursday

Nearly 500 Mansfield area Boy Scouts and Scout officials will move into Camp Avery Hand south of Ontario Thursday for their annual three-day camporal.

"Camporal is the high point of the year in Scouting's great outdoor program, as it is the only time when all Scouts of the area get together for fun, fellowship and an exchange of ideas," Scout Field Executive Ray Turner said.

Scout troops from Mansfield, Ashland, Galion, Shelby, Loudonville, Perrysville, Plymouth, Lexington, Crestline and Ontario will attend the Comparel.

The Scouts will be divided into three sections when they arrive Thursday and that night each section will gather around individual camp, fires for an evening of fun, songs and stunts.

Friday evening the three sections will merge for the presentation of Star, Life and Eagle awards to Scouts who have won advancements during the past three months.

Following the three-day session of Scout lore, craft, contests and general festivities, the group will meet Saturday morning for demonstrations and stunts by each troop in the area.

The three-day gathering of Scouts will be under the leadership of Floyd Dent, area Scout executive, and Turner, Scout field executive.

The suit was the result of a traffic accident Dec. 14, 1946 on U. S. Route 30-S, one mile west of Mansfield.

A three-judge court reached a decision late yesterday after hearing evidence for two days. Hearing the case were Judge G. E. Kalbfleisch, Judge Luther VanHorn of Huron county, and Judge Leland R. Rutherford of Morrow county.

County Groups Join Food Train Drive

Representative Richland county farmers will meet tonight to discuss plans for the county's share in the Ohio Food train, to be sponsored by the Christian Rural Overseas program.

The project was launched yesterday at Marion with a meeting of church and farm organization leaders of six counties in this area. Richland county was represented by Rev. R. W. McNary, pastor of the Ontario Community church, who heads the Richland county committee.

Rev. McNary will report at the meeting tonight on plans made at the Marion meeting for collecting wheat and dairy products for shipment overseas. The project is expected to culminate in the sending of an Ohio Food train late in July.

The activities of CROP, as the movement is called, are nationwide in scope and it is expected that at the beginning of the harvest season, 100,000 volunteers will be soliciting grain donations from farmers in the wheat belt alone. CROP is sponsored by the Catholic Rural Life, Church World Service and the Lutheran World Relief.

The Richland county committee includes, besides Rev. McNary, Rev. John MacDonald of Shenandoah, Warren Smith and Arthur Mellick of Shiloh, Gail Hammert of Mansfield, Harry Stroup of Shelby, Mrs. Max McFarland of Little Washington and Dick Wolford, Mansfield, R. D. 2.

They will meet tonight in the common pleas court room at the courthouse.

'Y' Schedules Berry Festival

Dust Control Nearing End

Richland County Engineer Walter E. Rusk announced today that the dust control and road oil program, started May 14, was 80 per cent completed. It probably will be finished this week.

Fifty thousand gallons of oil and four carloads of calcium chloride have been applied to roads so far.

The 1947 dust control program required 200,000 gallons of oil, but oil has been more difficult to obtain this year.

"On April 10 we asked for bids for the same quantity of oil as we received last year," Rusk said, "but no bids were received. We were offered oil, however, in quantities which couldn't be guaranteed and went ahead with our program on that basis."

Rusk said two more carloads of calcium chloride had been ordered and would be used when received. The chemical, used on the heavier-traveled roads, can be applied even in wet weather. Spring rains delayed oil applications somewhat, Rusk said.

CAR SMOKING

Firemen from No. 2 station were called to Harker and Mulberry streets at 3 p. m. yesterday when the auto of May Teeters West Longview avenue, was smoking. Firemen said no damage resulted.

Art Teacher Must Wait For His Pay

A state law against retroactive salary payments from public funds today held up payment of more than $20 of the salary due John Bernat, Mansfield art instructor, for conducting city recreation department art classes.

City Auditor Paul L. Kelley said he withheld part of Bernat's earnings because state examiners recently emphasized retroactive salary ordinances were illegal.

The city can pay Bernat the full $105 due him by passing an ordinance labeling the bill a "moral obligation of the city of Mansfield," the examiner held

A bill providing for the hiring and payment of Bernat was approved by city council May 4. At that time council passed a measure ordering him to be paid, retroactive to Jan. 9.

Bernat was employed Jan. 10 by the city recreation department to teach an art class once a week at a salary of $5 per session.

Wallace Ban Protested

Local 758, UE, CIO, today protested the barring of Henry Wallace from the Ohio ballot. In a letter addressed to Secretary of State Edward J Hummel, the local called the ruling a gross injustice and demanded its reversal. The letter follows:

"Local 758, UE CIO, is deeply concerned over your recent ruling barring Henry Wallace and Glenn Taylor from the Ohio ballot in November. It is our opinion that your ruling was a gross injustice, not only to the thousands of Ohio voters who petitioned for the right to vote for Henry Wallace, but a denial of the right to the free and unrestricted franchise that all Ohioans have the constitutional right to exercise.

"Furthermore this local feels that your ruling is a most dangerous precedent that cannot be allowed to stand, whereby one man in the manner of the Mundt bill can deny democratic rights to an entire state at his discretion."

Letters also were sent to Governor Herbert and to the heads of the Ohio Democratic and Republican parties asking them to oppose the ruling.

Mastersingers to Present Lakeside Concert In August

A second out-of-town engagement has been scheduled for the Mansfield Mastersingers, it was announced today

The 60-voice men's choir will go to Lakeside Wednesday, Aug. 4, for an evening concert in the amphitheater. The offer was received from Dr. H. W. Courtney, general manager of Lakeside and Kenneth Miller, business manager.

Previously, the Mastersingers had been engaged for the closing two days at Lake Chautauqua, N. Y. Although, members are working hard to perfect their music for the Chautauqua concerts, they voted unanimously to include the Lakeside engagement in their strenuous summer schedule

Bentley Ford of Galion, who will accompany the group to Chautauqua as soloist, also will go to Lakeside to sing solo numbers. He will be accompanied there, as at Chautauqua, by Mrs. Marie Porterfield Platt.

Mastersingers will go to Lakeside in a private car caravan late Wednesday, Aug. 4. As in all concert engagements they will be directed by A. Lemoine Derr with Dr. F. A. Hoffman at the piano.

Their program for the Lakeside concert will be similar to the one they will present next Monday and Tuesday nights at the John Simpson auditorium.
